assists the body to balance the 5 major systems

According to Chinese belief, the flow of nature is divided into five parts, referred to as the Five Elements of the Quinary (water, wood, fire, earth and metal). They represent balance within the universe. Every living thing is made up of these Five Elements, whether it be animal, vegetable or human. Because the body is made up of the Five Elements, it is believed the most effective nourishment is made up of whole foods also containing the Five Elements. This whole food has its energy intact and can easily be used and assimilated by the body for nourishment.

The ancient Chinese understood the body's need for whole food and made sure their formulas for health and longevity never destroyed this balance among the Five Elements with Yin and Yang, the positive and negative energies, in balance.

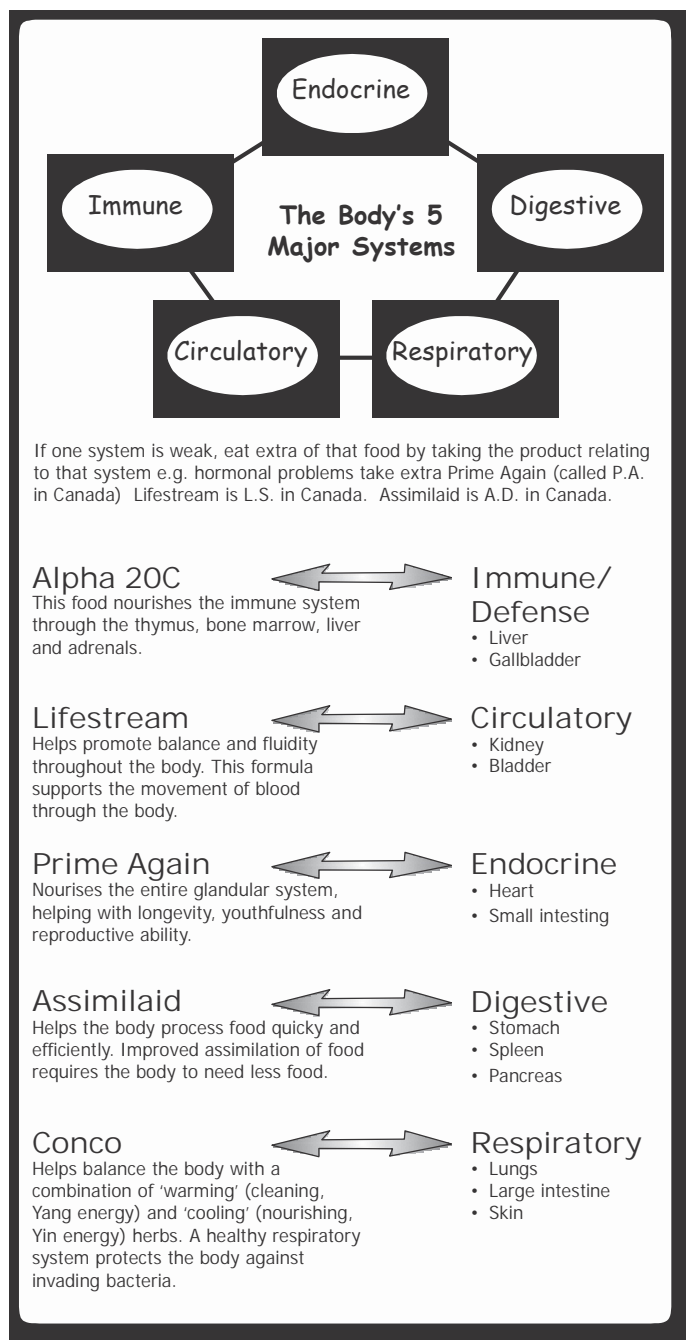

A body in balance is self-adjusting and self-regulating. This is a result of the five systems working in harmony, balance and in good communication with one another. This is likened to a cart pulled by a team of five horses. It operates at maximum speed only when the horses are pulling in concert.

In keeping with Chinese tradition and the Philosophy of Regeneration, daily maintenance of the body with proper nutrition is key to preventing physical malfunctions. Dr Chen created Quinary as a convenient way to keep the body's five major systems (endocrine, respiratory, circulatory, digestive and liver/immune systems) in balance. He made a special, complex formula by combining:

- Alpha 20C;
- Conco;
- Prime Again
- Assimilaid;
- Lifestream;

For energy to flow through the body, the organs need to be nourished. Quinary contains 50 concentrated herbs and extracts which together promote balance, synergy, harmony and communication among the 5 major systems of the body.

Sunrider's philosophy is to let the body's innate intelligence direct the use of the Quinary formulas in balancing the systems and addresses the body's systems collectively as well as individually.

Quinary helps maintain health rather than waiting for the body to malfunction.

Remember, Quinary is a food, so eat as much as you desire.

Quinary contains 50 concentrated herbs and extracts
